Dear Bobby and JT:

I want to thank you and the team from Narconon Hawaii Drug Education for bringing this vital information about drugs to the University of Hawaii, specifically to the players and coaches of our football team. It was truly awesome. The lecture and video went beyond common sense health issues, and communicated powerful but simple facts about alcohol and other popular drugs such as crystal meth and Ecstasy, which plague the Islands. This was very useful and helpful information, which I highly recommend getting out to others as soon as possible.

The information and video concerning Ecstasy I found vitally important. It is crucial that our youth, teachers and parents have access to accurate, helpful information (including how Ecstasy is being pushed on kids). Parents should be made aware how drugs are being covertly promoted to kids and young adults even in our mainstream media. The Narconon drug-ed lecture graphically exposes these facts.

I felt your approach was honest, direct and effective; not trying to scare anyone from using drugs, but giving them information aimed at a level they can understand and use, and is real to them. I believe this approach helps make informed decisions. I also feel it will help them to think about the long-term consequences to their physical and mental health, and how taking drugs can reduce their effectiveness as athletes and students right now, when it counts.

Some of us don't look at street drugs or pharmaceuticals as toxins or poisons, but Narconon has it well documented by science that they can be very toxic. Clearly, having numerous scientific studies to support your program raises the credibility for the players and coaches alike. We all enjoyed receiving a copy of the Science Reference Booklet. This will go a long way in shaping the players thoughts if they ever contemplate using illegal substances.

Thanks for continuing on with this battle, which is far from won. However, Narconon's programs and persistence is making a difference and we all appreciate it. And allow me to highly recommend your drug education program to schools, colleges, athletes, coaches, and parents. I found it to be quite a remarkable presentation.

Sincerely,

June Jones
